BIG NEW POLICE BASE CLEARED

-Talks soon on district muddle

by John Dixon

Work will begin this year on a big new police complex at Altona North.

Williamstown MLA, Mr Gordon Stirling, said yesterday the approval was given in a short paragraph in the State Budget, introduced into parliament last week.

More details will be available after the Budget debate resumes next week, Mr. Stirling said.

This debate would also open the doors for discussion on the geographically - unmanageable Melbourne Ports Police District, Mr. Stirling said.

The budget allows $11.1 million for construction work within the Police Department and of this $3.6 million has been set aside for extensions to the Police Training Academy, at Glen Waverley.

The bulk of the balance will go toward new, 24-hour police stations at Altona North and Horsham.

Because of the far bigger area it will have to cover and the far denser population, it is expected a big percentage of the $7 million-odd will be spent on the Altona North project.

The new police base will be in McArthur's Road, which runs off Millers Road, near Altona North High School.

While the Budget papers describe it as a 24-hour station, district Labor MPs have put forward a plan for a far bigger complex as the end result.

These MPs, with delegates from Altona and Sunshine councils put a case for a police district headquarters at Altona to the former Chief Secretary, Mr. Rossiter four years ago.

Mr. Stirling said he envisaged the headquarters eventually embracing its own districts, west of the Maribyrnong River.

On the present Melbourne Ports issue, he said the Labor spokesman on police and MLA for Ascot Vale, Mr. Tom Edmunds; the Deputy Opposition Leader, Mr. Bob Fordham (Footscray) and himself would attempt to have the issue discussed with the police section of the Budget debate.

Melbourne Ports district stretches from Elwood through St. Kilda, Victoria Dock, Footscray and Newport to Williamstown.

Altona, Sunshine and Laverton are covered by V district.

The only Crime Car Squad in the area is based at St. Kilda.

With establishment of the new Altona North complex it is envisaged all would be covered from the same headquarters.

Queen's Guide now

The west's newest Queen's Guide, Alison Middlebrook, of Altona, was presented with her badge during a ceremony at the civic centre.

Alison is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Middlebrook, of Fourth Avenue. She is a member of the 2nd Altona North Guide Company.

Altona Gate manager

Mr. Les Corser has been appointed manager of the soon-to-be-completed Altona Gate Shopping Centre.

Mr. Corser, 30, took up the position last Monday.

Its doors will be open to the general public for the first time on October 4.

Lost without a bus

Life is pretty lonely for Mr. Baden Powell Russen (pictured).

Mr. Russen, 77, has lived on his own in Blyth Street, Altona, since his wife Ruby died back in 1970.

Up till now he had managed to keep relatively busy by driving the Altona Senior Citizens Club's 12-seater bus.

For the past 10 years it has been his job to transport members to and from the club for the four days of the week that the club is open.

But that all ended two weeks ago when Mr. Russen was instructed by Altona Council to give up driving the bus to make way for someone a little younger.

"Naturally after so many years I'm not very happy about losing the job" said Mr. Russen last week.

"They (Altona Council) told me that at 77 I was too old to keep driving and that they couldn't insure me," he said.

"I never got any complaints from the passengers, only praise."

Mr. Russen is proud of his driving record.

"I started on the roads in 1935 when I rode a motor bike, and over the years, I've never had an accident," he said.

Mr. Russen, who still drives his own car (an FC Holden station wagon), said the Senior Citizens Club was planning a function to thank him for his service.

Altona town clerk, Mr. Sid Fell, confirmed that Mr. Russen had been asked to stop driving the bus.

"If there had been an accident while he was driving then Altona Council could have been held responsible for allowing a man of his age to drive the bus," he said.

Shaw to be next mayor

Cr. Alan Shaw, 60, is the new mayor-elect of Altona.

A councillor for the past four years, Cr. Shaw was chosen mayor-elect at last week's general purposes meeting.

Cr. Shaw will chair the general purposes committee for the next 12 months - which is the usual practice at Altona - so as to give the incoming mayor experience at running meetings.

"I'm genuinely honored by the appointment," Cr. Shaw said earlier this week.

"I think that being elected mayor must be the highlight for any councillor and I'm certainly looking forward to my term in 1978-79."

"Of course the position also holds a lot of hard work for me and my wife, and I'll still be deeply involved with my council portfolio," he added.

Cr. Shaw has held the welfare portfolio in recent years and was the local organiser of the Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal.

Born in Williamstown, Cr. Shaw has lived in Altona for 17 years and works in the dispatch office of an Altona oil company.

He has a wife, Dulcie, and two daughters, who are both married and live in Altona.

Cr. Shaw said he wasn't really surprised to be chosen mayor-elect.

A sketch of old town

Book Review, by John Dixon

"Dirt was considered a sign of honest toil, and some people thought water too weak a drink to sustain heavy labor..."

The reference is to the Wilkinson Memorial drinking fountain, in Nelson Place, Williamstown, and the quote from Wilson P. Evans' latest book, "Williamstown Sketchbook".

It's typical of the humor that mingles with a great deal of history and typical of the nature of the author, who is Williamstown Council's official historian.

Williamstown Sketchbook is a series of 30 wonderful sketches by Annette Meikle and word sketches by 'Bill' Evans.

It opens with the story of the memorial fountain and Mr. Evans comments that in the early days of the settlement of the old town, "the main use for water appears to have been for supplying to stock".

It tells how the fountain was inaugurated on October 17, 1876 by the Anglican Bishop of Ballarat, Dr. Thornton and... because of the comment with which this review opened, several onlookers were "arrested and charged with being intoxicated".

The history of the fountain is told, with the histories of the other 29 buildings and landmarks of Williamstown.

Stories such as that of the huge anchor and swivel in Commonwealth

Reserve; how it came from Her Majesty's Victorian Ship Nelson and is one of the two anchors from that battleship preserved in Williamstown; the other in The Strand.

That landmark of all landmarks in the old town, the time ball tower is featured, of course.

The story of the deputy coroner, surgeon John Wilkins having the Prince of Wales Hotel, which still operates, built at the corner of Nelson Place and Morris Street.

And of how surely the first "streaker" in Victorian history did his act in the bar of that hotel in 1870.

Several churches are included — St. Mary of the Immaculate Conception; Congregational; Holy Trinity Church of England...

Some of the many private homes classified by the National Trust rate a sketch and a story; houses ranging from the humble cottage at 3 Cox's Gardens to the magnificence of "Mandalay", at 24 The Strand and Park House, at 27 Lyons Street.

The former Williamstown morgue is pictured and Mr. Evans tells how, before it was built, inquests were usually held at hotels.

"As many of the remains were in an advanced state of decomposition — particularly in summer — this procedure resulted in a large loss of revenue to the publican," recalls Mr. Evans.

And, of course, the old Steam Packet Hotel, rates a mention.

Writes Mr. Evans: "It causes no wonder that this hotel preserves the impression of those who go down to the sea in ships..."

Originally the Ship Inn, it was the first licensed public house in Williamstown, in 1838.

The original building was burnt down several years later and, "the present building rose phoenix-like from the ashes of the old structure in 1861".

HUNGER FREEDOM PLEA

The Australian Freedom from Hunger Campaign had committed itself to finance 45 self-help projects this year, the campaign's Williamstown organiser, the Rev. Laurance Slee, said yesterday.

This mean at least $1.2 million had to be raised. "We hope to raise a million during the campaign's record amount in 1977 doorknock, so the Williamstown," he added, promises could be "But to do this we

Foreign money goes in theft

A Spotswood overseas currency collector has had her collection, valued at $200, stolen in a housebreaking.

Stolen were Swiss francs, German marks, various United States coins and notes and a complete set of New Guinea currency.

Victim of the breaking was Mrs. Irene Goulden, of Abbott Street.

Thieves broke into her flat last Wednesday by smashing the glass in a window and manipulating the lock.

They ransacked the lounge and the main bedroom and stole the money from the lounge, between 3 pm and 6.10 pm, while

Mrs. Goulden was away from her flat. Senior-Detective Terry Hayden, of Footscray CIB, is heading the investigation.

Member of old family dies

A member of one of Williamstown's pioneer families, Alfred Norman Goff, died recently at the age of 79.

Mr. Goff, the father of Sunshine chief health inspector, Norrie Goff, lived in Russell Place, North Williamstown for 60 years from 1898 until moving to Mordialloc in 1958.

The son of Samuel Cornelius Goff and Mary Connell Baxter, Mr. Goff had a rudimentary education at North Williamstown state school before completing an apprenticeship in fitting and turning and pattern making at the Williamstown Naval Dockyards.

Mr. Goff served in both World War I and World II as a naval engineer.

As a junior engineer in World War I he saw action off South America and also witnessed part of the Russian Revolution.

After gaining his chief engineer's certificate, Mr. Goff again saw action in World War II as an engineering Lieutenant firstly in the degaussing section under Commander Keilly.

He was also responsible for the urgent repair of the gyro compass of the Isle de France, one of the convoy ships of the Queen Mary contingent steaming to the Middle East.

Mr. Goff was then called to Milne Bay, New Guinea, to put the diesel engines of HMAS Reserve in order.

As the engineering officer of the HMAS Reserve, Mr. Goff came under the command of Admiral Barby of the US Navy in the 7th Amphibious Group and saw action from Hollandia to Okinawa beyond the Philippines.

He was so highly regarded that when he fell seriously ill with a tropical illness, Admiral Barby ordered his transport by military bomber to the Flinders Naval Hospital in Sydney.

It was during this period that Mr. Goff's first wife, Allison Ivy Goff, formerly a teacher at North Williamstown state school, who he married in 1920, died.

On his discharge from the navy, Mr. Goff was employed as a maintenance engineer with the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission until his retirement in 1963.

Mr. Goff leaves a wife, Luda, whom he married in 1958, son Norrie and daughter, Esma (Mrs. Ron Sanders) of Canberra.

As a mark of respect a minute's silence was observed at last week's Sunshine council meeting.

Ex-Cr Alex Bond quits Altona

• Alex Bond, former Altona councillor who is leaving to make a new home in Perth sits among the belongings packed ready for his departure with his wife, Iris, on Friday.

by John Dixon

Alex Bond and his wife, Iris have almost finished packing and will leave on Friday to make a new home in Perth, WA.

Mr. Bond, one of Altona's leading figures until poor health forced him to slow down a few years ago, is a former Altona councillor and shire president.

He was born in Williamstown on January 13, 1911, but for the past 20 years has considered himself a son of Altona.

Mr. Bond built the house he has just sold, in Clematis Avenue, Altona

North, in 1958, when he moved from Williamstown to Altona.

Mr. Bond was elected to Altona Council in 1959, only a few years after the Shire of Altona was proclaimed, after being chopped from the Shire of Werribee.

He was shire president in 1962-63 and served as a Labor councillor until he retired in 1968.

A staunch Labor man of the old school, he is still a member of the ALP.

Alex Bond served with the Royal Australian Navy from 1939 to 1945, on the armed merchantman and landing ship HMS Bulolo in both the war against Germany and the war against Japan.

As a leading stoker, he was aboard the Bulolo when it landed Australian and British troops to fight Rommel's forces in North Africa in 1942.

He still retains his links with the navy as a member of Footscray branch of the Naval Association and a former member of the association's Victorian State Council.

In his years in Altona, Alex Bond has been active in many organisations and done many good turns for a lot of people.

One instance that comes to mind is when he gave his own push bike to a lad who had his stolen.

In council a 'hobby horse' was air pollution from meatworks and other industries outside Altona's boundaries.

"I'll challenge anyone to sit on my front verandah and eat a tomato sandwich and drink a cup of tea when the wind's in the wrong direction," he said in the council chamber more than once.

'UNSOCIAL BEHAVIOR' CLAIM ON FLATS

Recent complaints to the Housing Commission about the "unsocial behavior" of children from Williamstown's Brone Court estate, has brought a prompt response.

The Housing Minister Mr. Hayes advised the council last week that a resident estate officer will be installed in Williamstown to oversee local estates.

And he indicated that steps have been taken to resolve the unsatisfactory situation at Brone Court.

The move stems from complaints of nearby residents, that "latch-key" children from Brone Court, who had no access to toilets until their parents came home, were relieving themselves in the grounds.

Dickie looks at danger corners

The Chief Secretary, Mr. Dickie, is to examine the dangerous intersections of Fitzgerald Road with Boundary Road on Doherty's Road, Werribee.

The Labor Party candidate for Werribee, Dr. Ken Coghill, said the examination is the result of his representations to Mr. Dickie.

Dr. Coghill said he had written to Mr. Dickie pointing out that the intersections had a bad accident record.

He said Fitzgerald Road had a kink where it crossed Boundary Road.

A man was killed there recently when his car hit an electric light pole just across the intersection.

Doherty's Road crossed just south of a crest in Fitzgerald Road. Dr. Coghill said there was no warning sign on Fitzgerald Road.

Dr. Coghill said Mr. Dickie had promised to write again after examining the situation.

"I am pleased to have started some action on this long-standing problem," said Dr. Coghill.

Name not product

Corporations who sponsor the Williamstown Festival will be restricted to advertising their company's name, not the products.

This was one of the resolutions passed at the first festival sub-committee meeting last month.

Townscapes chairman, Cr. Jeff Bird told council last week the State Governor, Sir Henry Winneke will be invited to take part.

A proposal to issue a $1 family ticket, to cover entry to all festival exhibitions is being considered.

Williamstown in brief

'The Philanthropist'

Williamstown Little Theatre's production of the Christopher Hampton modern comedy The Philanthropist opens next Tuesday (September 20) night at the theatre in Albert Street, Williamstown.

Proceeds from the opening night will go to the Footscray Community Arts Centre, which is raising funds for the establishment of a regional arts centre on the banks of the Maribyrnong.

The Philanthropist was written as an antithesis of Moliere's Le Misanthrope which illustrated the opinion that a hater of mankind — a misanthrope, can be very hurtful and upset people around him.

Hampton's philanthropist is a person who likes almost everyone he meets. But despite his desperate efforts not to hurt or offend anyone, he manages to upset and antagonise those around him, as a misanthrope would.

Written for the Royal Court Theatre in London, the play was first performed in 1970.

The Little Theatre's version is produced by Gillian Wadds, whose last production was the ribald Greek romp Lysistrata.

When the play came to Melbourne in 1972, the title role in the Melbourne Theatre Company production was played by Neil Fitzpatrick, a former member of the Little Theatre.

Bill Martin has the title role in the Williamstown production. His previous roles include parts in The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie and A Man For All Seasons.

Other cast members are: Robin McNally, Lyndell Heiner, Janine Doherty, Douglas Lindsay, Peter Black and Bartley McGowan.

Clean trucks

Williamstown Council's month-long campaign to stop trucks working on the Newport Power Station site muddying exit roads, has ended successfully.

The health inspector, Mr. Noel Hawthorn reported to council last week, that the trucks are now "thoroughly washed" before they leave the site, and Douglas Parade has been maintained in clean condition.

Waight Clinic

The animal relief clinic in Home Road, Newport will be known as the Dorothy Waight Pavilion, in recognition of Mrs. Waight's services for animals in the district over many years.

Trial islands

Two temporary traffic islands will be placed at the intersection of Nelson Place and Col Street to gauge traffic flow and assess residents' reactions.

Moving the motion at last week's council meeting, Cr. Neville Mashford stressed the scheme would be implemented on a trial basis only.

Cosy gallery

Before framing next year's estimates, the town clerk, Mr. Trevor Sloan, has been asked to investigate the cost of providing cushions for seats in the public gallery at the council chambers.

Cr. Ron Dawes told last week's council meeting he hoped his motion would be carried with a "loud applause from the gallery audience."

"It's good to note we've been getting more people in the gallery lately and we should make their stay as comfortable as possible," he said.

HI GIRLS,

We have a great new all-in-one make-up kit from Elizabeth Hartley containing a blacklash-lengthening mascara, three fashion-shade eyeliners and eyeliner brush, four shimmering eyeshadows and eyeshadow brush, two blush-on powders with blush-on brush and of course a mirror, giving you everything right at your fingertips for an instant make-up anytime anywhere. This handy all-in-one compact is only 3½ inches by 4½ inches so it fits neatly into your handbag. This compact is great only $6.95.

Have you tried the beautiful French fragrance Sortilege? Sortilege is a light, luxurious fragrance, very similar to the Arpege, and has good lasting powers. Sortilege is on special at the moment, a two-ounce cologne spray and a talcum together for only $6.95.

Girls, do you have a problem with ugly dark hair on your legs, arms or face. And shaving can be a disaster with those prickly hairs needing re-doing every few days. If you have this problem Andrea Cream Bleach may be what you need, it fades away those unsightly hairs quickly, blending them into natural skin tones.

Revlon have updated their skin care range, making it much simpler. The new range consists of three products:

1. Deep Action cleanser — Super intensive scrub, thoroughly cleanses the skin with gentle exfoliating action. Almond meal and almond oil formula cleanses pores and removes dry flaky skin, prepares the skin to accept and absorb moisturiser more efficiently.

2. Biphase Moisturiser — a light, non-greasy, fast acting moisture lotion that works in two vital ways for your skin. Adds moisture to the skin surface and helps protect against harmful drying effects of the environment. Sun, wind, cold, even central heating and air conditioning are very harsh on the skin. Bi-phase moisturiser provides a smooth base for under make-up.

3. Treatment soap — Natural moisturising capsules release protective lubricants during cleansing. This fast-foaming bar ends usually soap and water dryness, leaving face feeling soft and clear.

These three new skin products are attractively packaged in white boxes with a pink and gold stripe so look for it next time you are in.

4 'anniversaries' for this church

The 124 anniversary next Sunday of the Presbyterian Church in Williamstown will, in actual fact, embrace four events of special significance.

These are:

- The first Presbyterian services, in 1853.
- The opening a few years later of a small wooden church in Cecil Street.
- The opening of St. Andrew's, Cecil Street, on June 10, 1860.
- The re-opening of St. Andrew's on March 5, 1871, after structural faults forced re-building.

The history of the Presbyterian faith in Williamstown is romantic and unusual.

And it is given more significance in that St. Andrew's is one of a minority of Continuing Presbyterian churches, after most linked into the Uniting Church in June this year.

Before the first church was built, Presbyterians worshipped in a boat shed on the site of the present Customs House, in Nelson Place, near Gem Pier.

A Captain Ferguson was a leader in the church from the first services and because there was no musical instrument, the singing was led by Mr. John Morgan.

The first organised services were conducted by the Rev. Allan MacVean and it was Mr. MacVean who secured the small, wooden building in Cecil Street, used as a school during the week and a church on Sundays.

When it was decided to build a stone church on the site of the present church, Mr. William Clarke sold the land for £1000.

But when Mr. Clarke was called on for a subscription to the new church he refused to give a penny because, he said, the land was worth £2000... a statement proved correct when half the original site was sold for £1000.

Money from this sale was boosted by subscriptions and the original St. Andrew's was opened on June 10, 1860.

The opening was celebrated by a soiree, or evening party, for which admittance was 2/6.

But eight months later rain damaged the buildings.

Another soiree brought in the cash for repairs, but deterioration continued and eventually rebuilding was decided on and the present church was opened in 1871.

There was still no musical instrument, however; but eventually a congregational vote decided by 160 to 16 to install an organ at a cost of £300.

The reference to the church of 1860 and 1871 as St. Andrew's is not technically correct. It was not until 1925 this became the official name.

The question of dancing on church property was a lively one in those years and the final decision was not to allow it... a decision that remained in force for many years.

Next Sunday's 10 am service will be conducted by one of the Presbyterian Church's most eminent clergymen, the Very Rev. Dr. J. R. Blanchard, of North Melbourne, who is now retired.

The feature of the 7 pm service will be a recital by The Avenue Choristers, from Blackburn Uniting Church.

Get out the spades, you gardeners

Now's the time to start digging up those gardens, according to John Rivett (pictured), manager of Altona Sand, Soil and Screenings yard.

The yard, in Pier Street, is the only soil and screenings place in Altona.

John has been manager for two months now, when Hart and Carlsson (the Newport Carlsongs people) bought the yard from Merritt's timber and hardware.

John previously worked as a driver, specialising in concrete mixers and tip-trucks.

"It hasn't been too bad so far, and now that winter's over it's picking up all the time," he said.

"Of course, with spring here, I expect that garden supplies will really kick on — it'll probably be our busiest time of the year."

"Already, I've found it very easy to get along with customers, most of them enjoy a little chat."

The yard has the usual variety of garden supplies; plus several types of soil, ideal for topping in impoverished gardens.

"And there's no limit to the amount you can order," said John.

"You can buy a whole truckful, or, on the other hand, just a shovelful — just last week a guy came in and bought two shovelfuls."

And for those who can't pick it up themselves the yard can delive on the same day as you order.

"We're lucky here in that our Newport depot backs us up. If we haven't got something in stock then we can quickly get it," he said.

However, it's the building supplies side of the business which take most of the sales.

"At the moment, anyway, the building supplies are more in demand, mainly because of the housing developments out Altona Meadows way," he said.

John takes them to dog shows in the country.

"I even had to buy a panel van so they could all fit in," he said.

John, 27, is engaged to a local girl, Joy Reid.

Outside the business, John's two main interests are the Williamstown Apex Club and breeding and showing great danes.

He has four of the dogs at his home in Ararat Street, Altona North, and is expecting two sets of litters soon.

The Westside Singers, will be featured at the 9.30 am service at St Stephen's, Williams-town. The Rev. Chester Hodge will lead the service.

Preacher at the 11 am holy communion service at Westgate Church, Newport West, will be Mr. Russell Dancy.

Miss Dorothy McNeill will preach at the 10.45 am service at Hudson Road, Spotswood, and the 7 pm service at that church will be conducted by Mr. Hodge.

The Stevedore Street, Williams-town, service at 11 am will be conducted by Mr. G. Bratby.

Gaming Squad police last Thursday that they found the machine, known as a "Safari Game," in an espresso bar at 114 Hopkins Street, Footscray, on June 25.

Marcò Morcalano, of Henty Street, Brooklyn, did not appear in court to answer a charge of operating a contrivance of gambling.

Mr. William Guy, SM, fined him $150 and agreed to a request from Senior Detective Eric Duffy for the machine to be forfeited and destroyed.

Sen.-Const. Duffy said he and other Gaming Squad police went to the espresso bar about 12.45 am on June 25.

Some people were playing the machine and he obtained change and played it himself.

The machine accepted more than one coin at a time and it was necessary for three identical figures to appear at a time for a dividend to be paid.

Three times while he played the machine he received money, Sen.-Det. Duffy said.

The money was obtained by playing a game of chance, he added.

Library wants information

Footscray Institute of Technology librarian Mr. Geoff Shaw wants to contact community groups in the west to find out the material they publish.

The FIT library takes an active interest in the information needs of people in the west.

It is compiling a list of information sources in the west including details of where the information is located.

Many small community groups in the western region print pamphlets, circulars and booklets which are not normally kept in libraries. This type of material is a source of information.

TOWN LOOKS STRONG IN CRICKET

Cricket gets under way for Williamstown Cricket Club next Sunday, with a match against Werribee and every indication the Seagulls will field a strong team.

Players are to meet at Galvin Park, Werribee at 10.15 am and the game will start at 11 am.

Players should also take their own provisions, for a barbecue.

Club president Bob Major is in Japan on holiday and John Molyneux is acting president.

He played with Williamstown in its last premiership in 1946 and later with North Melbourne, where he was wicketkeeper before Len Maddox took over.

The president's dinner will be on Thursday, September 29 and the team for the first match of the season, against Brunswick, will be announced.

Practice is already under way, under the lights at North Melbourne at 5 pm on Wednesdays.

Coach Barry Watson says the club has recruited well, including obtaining the services of two possible junior right-hand bats, from Footscray Cricket Association.

John Dalton, former Town player and Altona coach in 1976-77 is expected to pad up with season.

Veteran player and committee member John "Chooka" Fowler has retired from play, but will still be active in the club.

From fourth to first

Williamstown Lacrosse under-19's swooped in from fourth position on the ladder and stole the grand final flag from Malvern at the weekend.

The pressure was on from the word go as Williamstown took the lead 5-2 in the first quarter.

Defence play by Alan Morley and Joe Tuck's war-like attacking put Malvern at a disadvantage.

However, Williamstown's defence lacked consistency and Malvern capitalised on this weakness during the second quarter.

At half-time Malvern levelled 8-8.

Steven Pike was the main obstacle to Malvern's top scorer while Denis Newman dominated the centre to stop Malvern's run in the third term.

Goalie, Fred Sepiano was starting to bring out some fine saves. But the forwards let the team down missing a lot of easy opportunities.

Willi was one goal ahead at the start of the final term and in a magnificent last-minute dash jumped their opponents by scoring 8-1 taking the final score to 22-14.

Votes went to Morley, Newman and M. Jennings.

Goals: Tuck 6, Lewer 5, Flaherty and Newman 4, Jennings, Kennedy, Mad-donia 1.

The Williamstown under-16 and "A" grade grand finals will be played this week at Skinner's Reserve, Sunshine, at noon and 2.30 pm.

Junior football night

Williamstown Junior Football Club will hold its annual presentation night at the Holy Trinity Hall tomorrow (September 15) at 7.30 pm.

The six sides were not successful this year, but two players, Ian Fairley and John Hughes have won awards in the WSFL.

Two flags for Rams

Newport Rams capped a great year of baseball when the division two and reserves teams won the grand finals at the weekend.

But it was tough and go for a while as division 2 side were slow start and Monash University raced to a five-run lead in the first two frames.

Lynch replaced Harris on the mound and stemmed the students' hitting spree to finish off the third dig with a double play.

Ram rallied in the fourth frame and hit four runs over the plate but were still trailing Monash 4-5.

Then Henderson hit a homer to level the scores.

Harris took the Rams to 6-5 with another great hit. This gave them their first lead in the match, and the premiership.

Hits: Newport 7, Monash 9. Errors: Newport 4, Monash 2. Safe hits: Lynch (3), Henderson (2) including home run, Bunting (1), Armstrong (1). Best: Lynch led a great team effort.

The Reserves also had a battle to beat Melbourne University in the grand final.

The game was tight until the sixth frame when Rams staged a batting rally to score three runs to take a 4-2 lead.

In the seventh frame Rams strung their hits together for a further three runs to take the score to 7-2. Melbourne fought back, but it was too late.

Newport d. Melbourne 7-6. Hits: Newport 8, Melbourne University 4.

Errors: Newport 3; Melbourne 3. Safe hits: Cloughton (2), Eckhardt (2), Hansby (1), Snoey (1), James (1), Forrester (1). Best: Eckhardt, Hansley, Cloughton and Sullivan.

100 PLUS AT OPENING

More than 100 bowlers attended the Williamstown Women's Bowling Club opening on Saturday.

Club president, Mrs. Daintree, welcomed VIBA councillor Mrs. Joan Norton and Williamstown Mayoress, Mrs. West, to the 56th opening of the season.

Poor weather conditions ruled out any bowling for the day but guests enjoyed afternoon tea which was provided by the members.

Alice Price and Hazel Paine, who both recently celebrated their 80th birthdays, received their super-veteran badges and join the club's other super-veteran, Alison Cobbin.

All three are active bowlers.

Talk on foreshore future

The Williamstown Conservation and Planning Society has called a meeting to discuss the future of the foreshore, from Williamstown to Point Cook.

A panel of experts will present their views on two proposals — a housing development on the Williamstown Rifle Range and a Melbourne Metropolitan Board of Works regional park at Point Cook.

The society is concerned that planning policies be adopted for the western shore of Port Phillip.

A member said the results of uncontrolled development can be seen in the unbroken string of suburbs littering the bay's eastern shore.

The meeting is on Tuesday, September 20, at 8 pm in the Baptist Church Hall, Cecil Street, Williamstown.

St Marks
news

The Church of England Boys' Society will meet at St. Mark's Hall, Hudson Road, Spotswood at 7 pm on Friday.

Morning service next Sunday will be at 9, with Sunday School at 10.15.

Next Tuesday women's indoor bowls will be at 1.30 pm and God's Gang will meet from 3.45 pm to 4.45 pm.

Come fly a kite

Kite-flying is becoming an increasingly popular sport among children and families.

So Williamstown Council's recreation department is holding a kite-flying day next Sunday at 1 pm, on Shelley Beach.

The whole community is urged to take part. There are barbecues available, and prizes will be awarded for the largest kites, the most decorative and kites with dual controls.

Winners will become finalists in the kite-flying championships to be held at Royal Park in November, sponsored by 3XY and the national Kite-Flyers Association.

Five-day vigil for Newport

A five-day vigil has been organised at the Newport power station by the Williamstown Conservation and Planning Society.

It starts on Monday, September 26, at 6.30 am, opposite the gates of the Newport site.

On Saturday, October 1 a march will proceed from Newport to Melbourne, starting at 8.30 am.

Marchers as well as cyclists are welcome, and transport will be available for those who need it.

The society is planning a "Miss Williamstown" float to point out the unfairness of Newport.

If you want to help in any way, ring Margaret

Jackson on 397 1692 (AH).

All these activities need money, so a street stall is being held on Friday, September 23. Goods are needed for sale. For further details ring Betty Hall, 397 1069 (Bus.).

The society would also like to remind 3CR listeners of its broadcast every Tuesday at 11 am.

It also shares the "Citizens Speak" segment on Sunday night at 6 pm.

Ring Barbara Anderson on 397 7592 if you would like to become involved in these sessions.

Repat. patients entertained

A group of 47 patients from Bundoora Repatriation Hospital was entertained last week by Footscray, Williamstown and Western Suburbs TPI Soldiers Social Club.

The entertainment group comprised 30 club members.

Singers were Bonny Jarard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dorington and Ern Leyton.

Pianist was Daisy Fowler, with help from one of the guests, Frank.

Afternoon tea was served.

The special effort was won by Mrs. B. Wilson (B-70 yellow) with second prize going to Mrs. B. Dalton (C-56 white) and third to "Slim", of Williams-town, with C-41 white.

Prizes were donated by Mrs. K. McKenzie, Mr. Leo Corbett and an anonymous donor.

Funday on Sunday

Scout groups from Footscray, Williamstown, Newport and Altona will take part in a "Funday on Sunday" working bee at The Pines Scout Camp, Altona next Sunday.

All told, members of 17 groups from Footscray and Gellibrand scout districts will take part.

And it won't just be a day of work. Scout activities, kite flying and stunts have been arranged between 9.30 am and 4.30 pm.

A big permanent fire-place will be available for barbecues and parents have been invited to join their sons in the work and play.

More pine trees will be planted and people willing to help should take the necessary tools.

Other jobs planned are roofing the toilet block, erecting a barbed-wire barricade to try and stop vandalism that has been so prevalent at the camp in recent months, repairs to fences and rubbish removal.

Old players never die . . .

It's been said and sung that Old Soldiers Never Die and apparently the same applies to old footballers.

This is the implication of the picture. It's the team that represented Altona Football Club past players against present players at the club's reunion.

Back row — K. Sizeland (coach), B. Skinner, R. Schwabe, P. Mildenhall, O. Kearsley, S. Mandies, R. Martin, C. Sorrell, G. Munro, L. Wenlock and F. Knight (umpire).

Centre row — L. Martin, D. Boyle, A. Burkitt, W. Gardner, M. Campbell, G. Heyme, J. Lawson.

Junior football workers hosted

By Alan Burkitt

Coaches, team managers and parents who helped the junior section of Altona City Football Club during the season were entertained on Sunday afternoon.

The hosts, at the club's rooms, were the president, secretary and committee.

The junior section's activities for the season will end on Friday night when pennants and medallions will be presented.

Members of the premiership under 13 side and the under 15 side that was runner-up to Werribee will be the guests at this night.

The boys will also have team photographs taken. The evening will start at 7.30 and all the players from both teams are asked to attend and take their football gear.

The senior season will wind up with the presentation night on September 23 at the Finnish Hall and the annual meeting at the club rooms on Sunday, September 25, at 10 am.

The club committee is expected to make an announcement regarding the senior coaching appointment soon after the annual meeting.

Several applicants are being considered for the job of aiding the Vikings' rise up the ladder in the FDL next season.

Women to field cricket teams

Altona North Women's Cricket Club will field two teams in this season's competition.

The club has been granted the use of facilities — including a turf wicket — at Australian Carbon Black Pty. Ltd's sports complex, in Millers Road.

The club was interested in hearing from any girl interested in playing cricket, the secretary, Mrs. Betty Button, said yesterday.

Details of practice could be obtained by calling her, on 337 8906 or Mrs. June Jarvis, on 314 5508.

Little aths day

Williamstown Little Athletics Club training, coaching and registration day will be held on September 24, at Newport Oval, starting at 8.30 am.

The season starts on October 1.

All children aged seven to 12 are eligible to join. Parents are needed to help.

Spotswood win table tennis

Spotswood Star won the D-2 grade grand final in Western Suburbs Table Tennis Association's winter competition, with a 6-5 win over Hick Timbers last week.

Top player in the close, exciting match was Tony Darmanin, who won three games, including the final rubber that gave Spotswood the match.

A B-Grade, Hick Timbers fared better with a 6-3 win over Newport.

Top players in this match were Mick and Peter Byrne, who together won five of the team's six rubbers. The other went to Glenn Marks.

In the A-Grade grand final, Newport had a comfortable win over Williamstown, with the final score at 3-1.

Grand final results: A RESERVE GRADE — Spotswood d Naval Dockyard 6-4; B GRADE — Hick Timbers d Newport 6-3; C GRADE — Seaweed City d Sunshine 6-1; D-1

GRADE — Hoechst d'Ordinance Rebels 6-2; D-2 GRADE — Spotswood Stars d Hick Timbers 6-5; E GRADE — Yarraville d SWAD 6-2.

Newport bowls season open

Victorian Lawn Bowling Association councillor, Mrs Iris Davies, was guest of honor at the opening last week of the Newport associates season.

Other special guests included the former Mayor of Williamstown, Mrs. Esther Lalor and Mrs. Trevor Sloan, wife of the town clerk.

Officials from neighboring clubs attended the opening day.

Mrs. Lalor rolled the jack into position on the green, and Mrs. Davies sent down the first bowl for the 1977-78 season. The club's vice-president, Lil Duncan presented both ladies with orchids.

Veteran badges were presented to Sylvia Blanche and Thelma Watson by Mrs. Davies.

Winners from the days play were Dorothy Mall, Audrey Freak, Mary Field, Runners-up were V. Hardy, Marjorie McLauren, Eileen Cleary. Trophies were donated by Peg Cairncross.

MAKE THIN CUT FROM WET SAND

When the sand bunker is damp, the forward and downward movement of the clubhead meets resistance. Consequently, it is necessary to "skin" the ball out of wet sand. Too deep a cut would cause the ball to remain in the hazard.

To make a thin cut beneath the ball, be certain that your legs slide forward toward the target during your downswing. This tends to level the bottom of your swing arc.

When the sand is dry, the cut of sand should be only slightly deeper. Unless your ball is really sunken, never try to "blast" it out with a huge "divot." Remember, the sand shot is easier to control if you minimize the depth of your cut.
